ACTA's 64th Edition Blazes Its Way Into Decade

Blazing its way into the 1980s, the 64th edition of the Exeter High School yearbook will hopefully record for you what has been an eventful nine months for the local area, nation and the world.

EUHS passed into a new decade during the 1979-80 school year. And anytime you enter a new decade, such time has a way of being considered a milestone. EUHS was confident entering the 1980s, but still a little uncertain about the future.

This important year saw the decline of disco and the rise of roller skates, an interesting presidential election, a census, Olympic games and boycotts, and ballot initiatives in California that bring concern to some about the future of public education in this state.

It seemed everything was going up: from patriotism to gasoline prices to the price of an ounce of gold to political rhetoric.

Still, the every day job of education went on at Exeter High School. Teachers kept on teaching, students were learning and there was even time for rallies, sports and clubs on campus.

It is the job of the ACTA staff to document all of this for you to remember. Countless hours went into its production, including numerous hours outside normal class time. We hope you enjoy it as much as we have had putting it out.

Five Period Day Brought Change For Exeter High

Exeter High School students found a lot changed about their campus when they returned from summer vacation for the start of a new year the day after Labor Day, 1979.

For one thing, the buildings were sporting a new paint job, the first in 25 years, and for another major difference, EUHS students had a five-period day as their daily schedule.

This big change in the normal, everyday routine that affected the returning upperclassmen also included a homeroom to start the day with bonus classes before and after the regular day.

The homerooms were very important to the student body. Readmits were issued there by students' homeroom teachers and other matters such as the morning bulletin and flag salute became a part of the start of each day. Each homeroom also had its representative to the student council so everyone was involved in making decisions. Some homerooms even built floats for Homecoming.

School started later, much to the relief of the late sleepers, at 8:20 a.m. instead of last year's 8:05. Classes also were dismissed earlier, changing from 2:41 to 2:22 p.m. Lunch break was also shortened to 47 minutes.

There was a changing of the tardy policy, making the punishment for the third tardy per quarter in any one class to five detentions and a "U" in citizenship.

On the athletic side, EUHS changed leagues from the Central Sequoia to the East Yosemite League. Although moving up to a tougher league caused the win-loss records of some Monarch teams to suffer, the change was welcomed with the closer trip away from town. Despite this more difficult competition, Exeter did manage to win several league championships and numerous athletes were named to all-league teams.

Along with the paint job, the campus was spruced up with the addition of more trees, paid for by student body funds. The Student Body also helped out with funds for the new sprinkler system put in at Paul Dobson Field, east of the campus. This enabled new diamonds for the baseball teams and softball squad to be installed.

Spirit was promoted by many successful rallies. Most of the fall rallies were held out at the football stadium, with winter rallies moved into the Smith Gym. Unfortunately, the spirit got out of hand at a few rallies, and with work by the steering committee and student council, changes, and new guidelines were put in for a more controlled situation. Students adjusted quickly to the newly set rules.

EUHS students also kept up with the fads of the day, and even spent one day in the past. To most, the 3-D flick was a thing of the past, but students experienced something out of the 1950's with the popular "Creature from the Black Lagoon" as their annual Christmas movie.

EUHS also kept in the present with anything from shoe rollerskates to charm necklaces to gold jewelry.

Overall, it was a great year. Everyone seemed to adjust well the many changes. Activity in organizations and sports remained high and the year seemed to go quite smoothly.

ACTA Dedication Honors Jim Stolz's 24 Years At EUHS

The American College of Teachers Association (ACTA) has honored Jim Stolz, a dedicated educator and administrator, for his 24 years of service to the European Union High School (EUHS). Stolz, who has been a member of ACTA since 1990, was recognized for his leadership and commitment to the school and its students.

Stolz's dedication to EUHS is evident in his long tenure and his active involvement in the school's activities. He has served as a member of the ACTA board and has been instrumental in many of the school's initiatives. His leadership has helped to shape the school's future and has inspired many of its students.

The ACTA board of directors, which includes representatives from various European countries, has unanimously decided to honor Stolz with a special dedication. This recognition is a testament to his hard work and dedication to the school and its students.

Brenda McNeil Crowned Queen Of 18th Homecoming

Exeter High School students experienced a trip through time at the 18th annual Homecoming as the theme for 1979 was "The Time Machine."

During a short, four-day week, students got involved in numerous activities from Oct. 16 to Oct. 19.

Opening up it all was a stadium rally on Tuesday with a prehistoric theme, featuring caveman fashions. Spirit was high as the EUHS Faculty Band made its annual appearance.

Students were excused from fifth period classes to see the annual Slave Auction at the bandstand. Larry Allred again was auctioneer. Slave sales went well but unfortunately many of the owners did not require their slaves to perform their usual duties, taking away some of the spirit from the week.

A new feature to Homecoming was a "Battle of the '80s" competition held on Wednesday night. Winning the first place honors at the events, similar to the "Anything Goes" show, were the freshmen.

Thursday was the Queen's Assembly, during which students were entertained with the annual Junior Skit. The seven queen candidates were introduced to the student body and voting was held Friday during homeroom.

Thursday evening had a serpentine through downtown Exeter followed by a bonfire rally at the stadium. After the rally, a free dance for the students was held, featuring the band, "Monarch."

Friday was a minimum day with the annual Homecoming Parade through downtown Exeter. For the first time, the parade featured homeroom floats, which along with the usual club and class floats, were decorated on the lawn by the bandstand starting on Friday morning. Although it threatened to do so, the weather cooperated and it didn't rain on the Homecoming Parade.

Winning the class float competition was the Class of 1980, which was the fourth consecutive year for the class to win. This was quite a record achieved by the seniors.

On Friday evening, The Monarchs hosted Monache in a league football game. During halftime of the varsity game, Brenda McNeil was named as queen of the Homecoming.

Unfortunately, the varsity game was lost to Monache, 25-13, but any bad feelings were forgotten at the aftergame dance with "Shadow Fax" playing.

EUHS Switched From Powderpuff Football To Battle Of The '80s

Homecoming Activities in 1979 were somewhat different from the previous years' events. Because of previous serious injuries and poor sportsmanship Powderpuff Football was changed to the Battle of the '80s.

Battle of the '80s was held on the second night of Homecoming. Rich Jacobsen and Richard LaMunyon were co-commissioners of the event. The steering committee set up the events for that night.

The Battle of the '80s was a competition between the freshmen, sophomore, junior, and senior girls. It consisted of events such as tricycle racing, sitting on blocks of ice, inner tube races, riding a bicycle for the slowest time, an egg toss, obstacle course, slippery slide and, last but not least, the tug-o-war.

Halftime events consisted of crowning of the Battle of the '80s King. The nominees rode in on old cars driven by their escorts.

Bud Jones was crowned King, Craig Brown was first runner-up, and Mike Wyatt was second runner-up.

Placing first in the Battle of the '80s competition was the freshmen, followed by the sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

The Battle of the '80s has started a new tradition at EUHS. It should be fun and enjoyable for classes to come during Homecoming Week.

Seniors Didn't Let Lack Of Funds Damper Final Year

Reflecting back on their final year at EUHS, the Class of 1980 realized that Seniors really do have more fun

Being a senior brought privileges not before allowed the class. Barbeques were now their exclusive territory and lowerclassmen were not even permitted to smell the food

Homecoming was extra special to the senior class. Winning the float competition brought the title to the Class of 1980 for the fourth year in a row, making them the only class to do so. Although few will admit it, all enjoyed being sold as slaves. Ten senior girls also represented the class in the Battle of the 80's competition, placing a disappointing fourth

Their final year ran smoothly due to the help of class officers. Craig Brown, president; Trini Salgado, vice president; Kirk Atkinson, treasurer; and Berit Simpson, secretary. Advising the Senior Class in their numerous decisions were Bill McGregor, Joe Faria, Manny Koukhs, Bill Haynes, and Robert Harbin.

Rallies proved to be a true battle ground for the seniors. In the end they resorted to small rubber bags filled with water to curb the spirits of the lower classes.

Two dollars and 12 cents was the total assets of the senior class upon starting the 1979-80 school year. This lowly total took the class of 1980 deeper into debt than any previous class. They resorted to class dues and fund-raising functions to pull them out of the bind.

In their final days at EUHS, the Class of 1980 prepared for the highlight of four years of hard work: Graduation.

On June 5th, the class spent their last night as EUHS students in Disneyland. The all night party was a last goodbye for many.

At 8 o'clock on June 6, at the Exeter Union High School Football Stadium, graduation ceremonies were held for the Class of 1980

Hard-Working Seniors Always Found The Time To Relax

To the Class of 1980, the past four years has somehow flown by, only for the time to turn into memories that will last a lifetime.

Starting off their EUHS years as the largest freshmen class ever, with over 320 students, the class got involved in many extracurricular activities. But as most freshmen do, they spent most of their free time dodging those sadistic upperclassmen.

The freshmen class officers were Aaron Collins, Cheryl Torres, Jane Wanzer, and Cindy Kemp. During Homecoming '77, the freshmen started their record float building string with a first place float called "Cage the Cardinals".

As enthusiastic sophomores they won many spirit sticks, guided by class officers Aaron Collins, Fred Cardenas, Lori Stewart, and Cheryl Torres.

Again, they won the Homecoming float competition, with the fantastic float, "Blast San Joaquin Memorial".

The highlight for the sophomores was choosing their class rings. And because of diversities, the class became the only one in EUHS history to choose between two beautiful rings voted in by the class.

As juniors, they found themselves low on funds after the annual magazine sales. Faced with the dilemma of paying for the Junior-Senior Prom, the juniors worked hard at sports concessions to pull themselves out of debt. The officers who aided them were Rhonda Bateman, Lori Stewart, Jane Wanzer, and Julie Stutsman.

The class won the Homecoming float competition for the third consecutive year with a float entitled "Chomp the Bears". As juniors they made it to the Powder Puff finals, only to be beaten by the strong sophomores.

Later on that year, the class hosted the Junior-Senior Prom with "A Night at Monte Carlo" as their theme.

As seniors, classes were changed from a six-period day to five, and homerooms were added. Senior class officers were Craig Brown, Trini Salgado, Berit Simpson, and Kirk Atkinson.

As seniors the class again won the float competition with an outstanding float entitled "Maul the Marauders". This four-year record will be held by the Class of 1980 forever.

Juniors Use Spirit To Capture Five Consecutive Rallies

The Class of 1981 seemed to have a knack at winning rallies. After the first "sleeper rally," the class won five in a row.

The juniors were led by their officers: Ruben Macareno, president; Rosendo Navarro, vice-president; Mitzi Hernandez, secretary; and Mary Garcia, treasurer.

These people worked as hard as possible and could always be seen in the concession stand during the football games; all of them, except the Homecoming game, in which there were no participation by the Junior class members and they unfortunately lost $900 to the FFA.

Two hundred-twenty eight students strong, the class made a very strong showing during Homecoming Week 1979. This year Powderpuff Football was canceled. The class placed third in the new "Battle of the 80's." In the float competition the juniors were second. The Juniors also won the first Homecoming week rally.

During their junior year, class members ordered class rings and received them in September. The ring chosen this year was not very popular and many went to jewelry stores to select the ring of their choice.

The Juniors depended on the support and leadership of the class advisor Glenn Biggs. He said, "This is one of the best junior classes I have had, and at least they are better than last year's."

Sophomores Were Busy Raising Money In 2nd Year

The Class of 1982 started off the year very relieved to no longer be dreaded freshmen.

The Sophomores were led by class officers: Rachel Casas, president; Annona Abney, vice-president; Connie Goldsmith, secretary; and Mike Treu, treasurer.

There were 243 sophomores roaming around the campus, less bewildered than last year.

When it came time for a rally the sophomores saved their spirit for the game. However, they did raise their spirit enough to apparently win a rally, only to be disqualified because a few members left a tad bit too early.

Homecoming was a big week for the Class of '82. It won second place in the first Battle of the '80's. The sophomores float, with a theme of "Maul the Marauders", placed third in class competition. The class spirit was at an all-time high when at the bonfire, it collected enough spirit to share the spirit log with all the classes.

Advisor Dwayne Lurz was kept busy with fund-raisers like the Homecoming Dance, which brought in a grand total of $350. They also ran a concession stand at a basketball game.

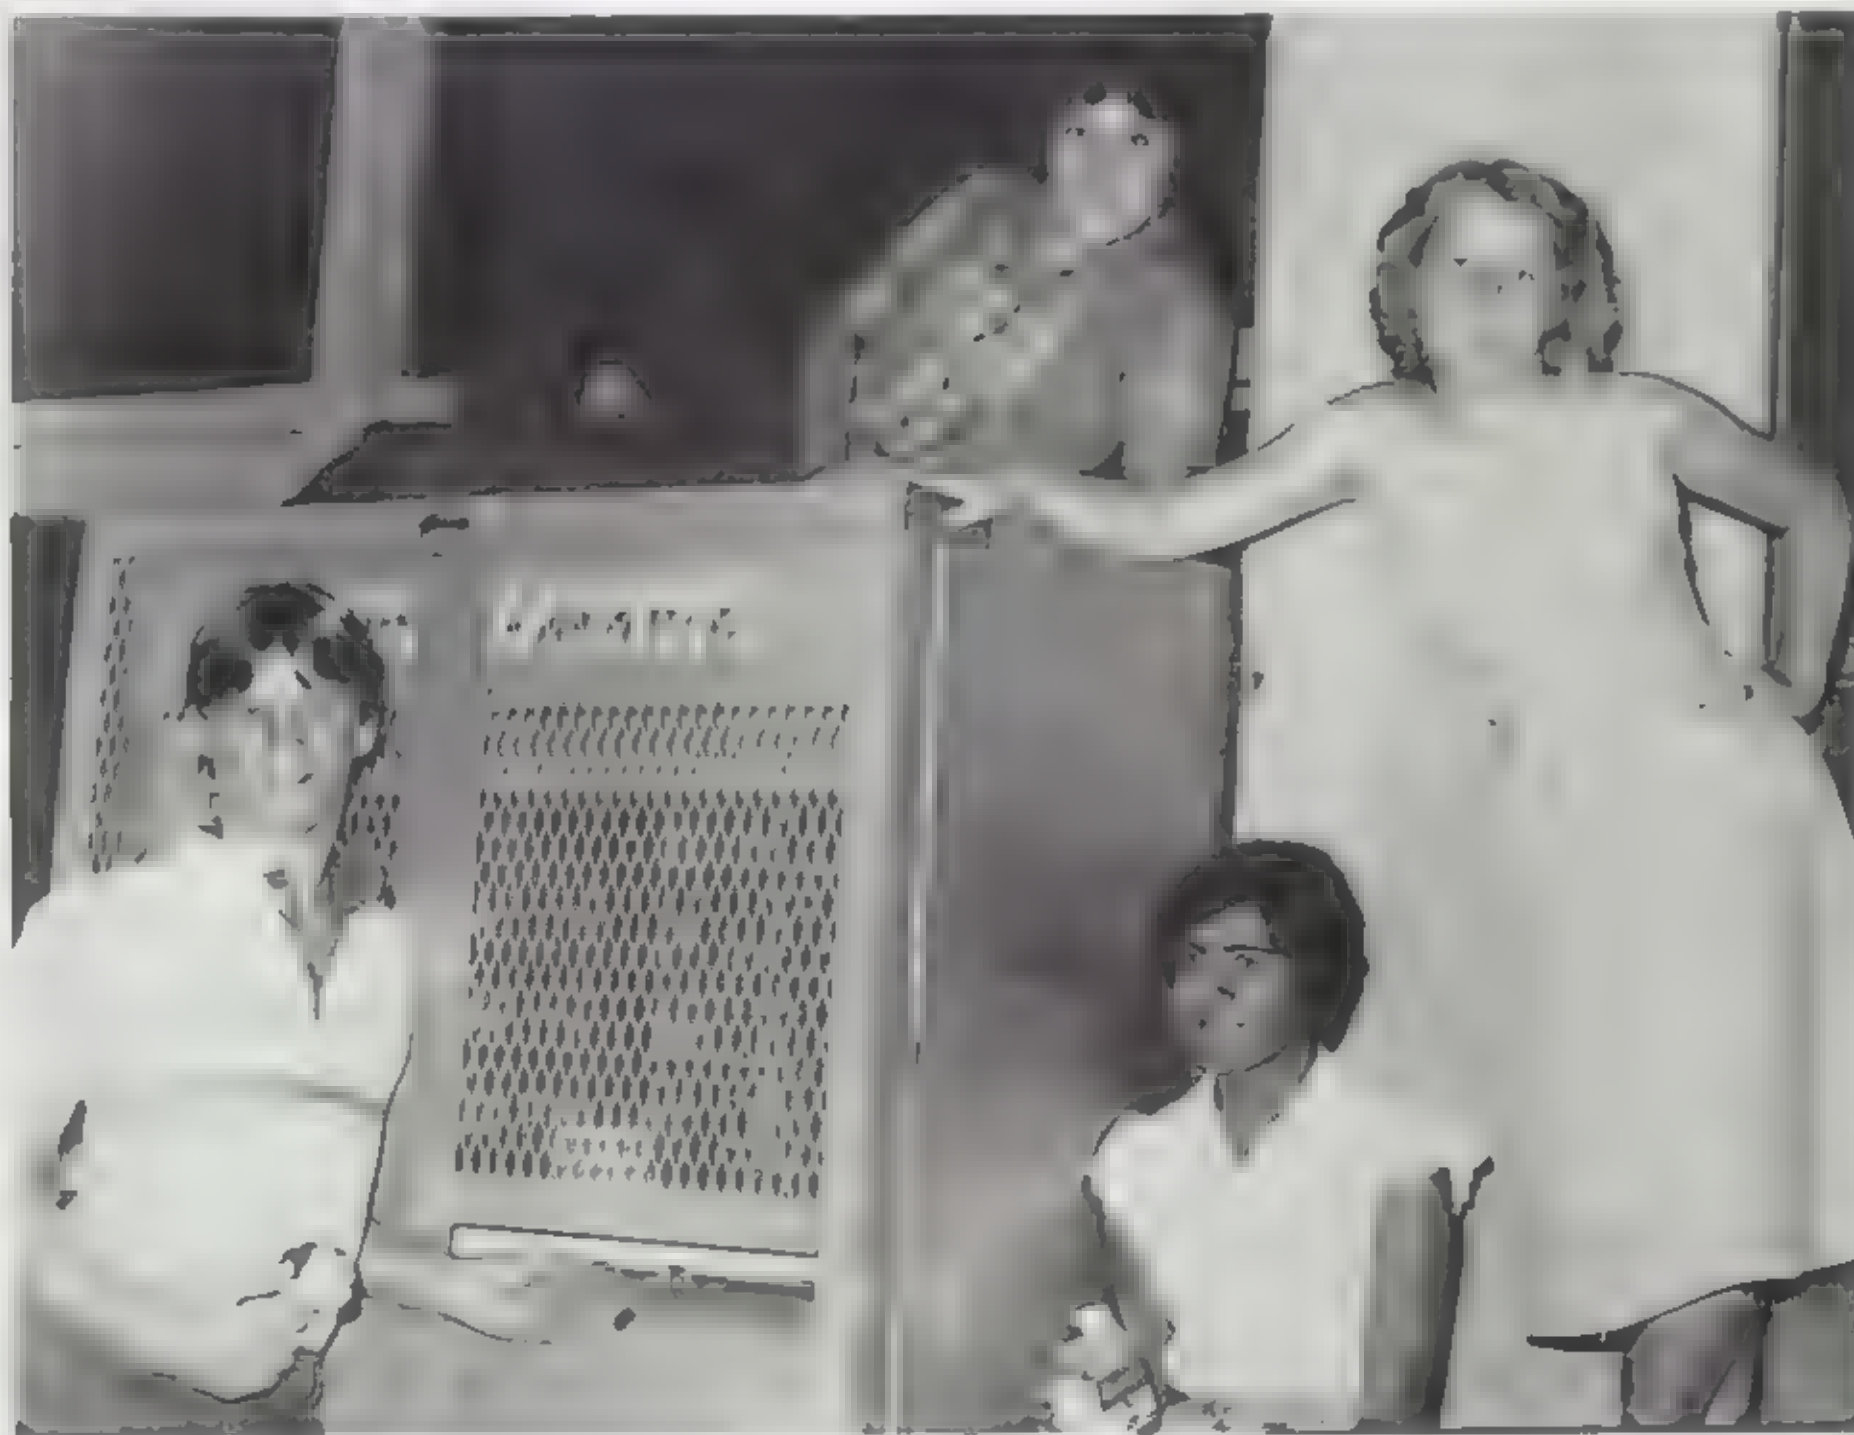

The class of '82 was the first to pick a major with the help of counselors Bruce Brandt, Marilyn Hadley, and Robert Harbin.

The sophomores took their first step to being upperclassmen by ordering their class rings in the spring.

The Class of '82 was involved in all phases of athletics and many clubs.

The sophomores ended up the year looking forward to being upperclassmen in the fall.

Freshmen Start Out Slow, But Gain Speed As Year Progresses

Heading the 250-student Freshmen class in its first EUHS year were Mary Hall, president; Christine Reyna, vice-president; Marcia Robinson, secretary; and Justin Raulston, treasurer. Advisor Joe Conley helped the Freshmen get off to a good start with money-raising activities.

The Freshmen suffered through torturous trips "over the hill" and "in the trash cans", but put the other classes in their places when they became the champions of the new and different "Battle of the '80's".

This Homecoming highlight boosted the Freshmen spirit way up after working long hours on a Freshmen float entitled "Mummify the Marauders", which did not place in the float competition, but brought many wet memories for those who worked on the rain-soaked float.

The Freshmen adapted well to the EUHS campus life, participating in all athletics programs offered at the high school. Academically, the Freshmen took the proficiency tests given to them in mathematics, English and reading.

Money Problems Didn't Spoil EUHS Academics

It seemed no matter which way Exeter High School turned, money problems were occurring. Errors by the state Dept. of Education were told to EUHS in March, and this was on top of earlier miscalculations of how much money was to come in. In fact, EUHS was operating on the same amount of money that it did two years ago. And this was in the face of over 21 per cent inflation during the span.

Yes, the budget restrictions hurt. But EUHS students did not see nor feel most of them. Everything was done to prevent harm to the academic life and most classes went on with little change.

There was a big change in the way of scheduling, though. EUHS went into the 1980's with a five-period day, a reduction from the previous six-period schedule. Helping out the elective classes was the opportunity to take some bonus classes before school and bonus PE after the regular day. Proficiency tests were also a big concern to both student and teacher alike.

State Cutbacks Bring Uncertainty To EUHS Board

The Exeter High School Governing Board struggled through the 1979-80 school year with a district cut back of 13 per cent.

Even though it is difficult to tell how the state will finance the school next year, they do not anticipate any major cut backs at this point.

Due to the Jarvis initiative (Proposition 9) many school programs may become self-supportive or cease to exist. An example of a self-supportive program is the possibility of charging students for the use of our busing system, or even sports.

The EUHS board and administrative staff was hopeful any additional cutbacks by state support to the district would not be necessary, and that Exeter High could continue with its present programs. But as the year progressed, there still were clouds of uncertainty on the horizon.

Administration Saw Counseling Cutback, New Majors Program

The administration faced many changes during the 1979-80 school year at Exeter High School.

Beginning with the Class of 1982, all students must complete a new majors program as part of the EUHS graduation requirements. Parents were asked to give written permission to select or change majors.

For financial reasons, the regular schedule was changed from six to five periods per day. There were advantages to the students because they had an option to take either five or seven classes.

Classes such as band, typing, chorus, and bonus PE were taken either before or after school. This schedule change cut down on electives.

Another change was the cutting back of teachers and counselors. There were three counselors which are now called "Counselor-Deans". They both counsel and discipline students. The Counselor-Deans were under the assistant principal, Bill McGregor, who is in charge of counseling and student activities. Taking McGregor's place as athletic director was Bruce Brandt.

The changes that have been made seem to be working very well, according to the principal Henry Simpson.

Faculty Reduced As 5-Period Schedule, Homerooms Introduced

Change was a big factor of the 1979-80 school year for the Exeter High School faculty.

The teaching staff was cut back due to the new five-period day, shortened from last year's six periods. Also new for faculty was a homeroom system.

During homeroom, teachers wrote everything from re-admits to passports and did some basic counseling duties, such as registering for new classes, for their students. Prep periods were all held after school for teachers.

Several "new" teachers were added to the staff at EUHS. Returning to teach after a one-year leave of absence were Mary Cairns, who returned after a maternity leave, and Mary Gorden, who returned after a medical leave.

The new choir director was Melinda Ray, from Wilson Jr. High. The new band director was Don Good, formerly a teacher at Delano Jr. High.

This year also marked the last year of teaching by a long time EUHS instructor. History teacher Glenn Biggs has taught at EUHS since September, 1953 and has 33 years total as a teacher. Larry Gardner left Feb. 29 for a new job in Saudi Arabia.

Serving the year as president of the Exeter High Teachers Association (EHTA) was agriculture instructor Russ Brandt. Other officers were Larry Lakey, vice-president; Joe Faria, secretary; Beryl Allison, membership chairman; and Gene Shields, social chairman.

EUHS Pep Squads Kept Their Spirits High Through Year

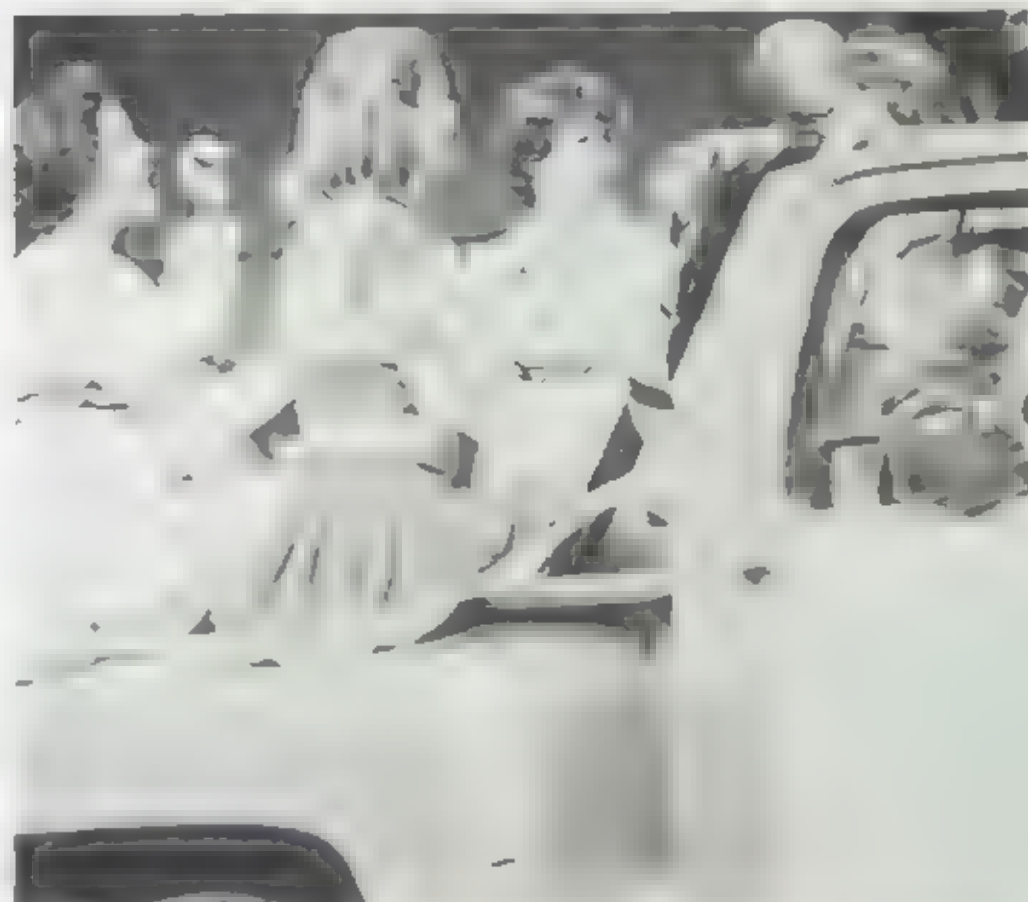

Seventeen members strong, the EUHS Pep Squad tried to fill their student body with spirit to lead the various teams to victory.

During the summer the pep squad performed at the Fourth of July celebration and held a massage booth to earn money.

This year's squad attended a cheerleader and songleader camp in Santa Barbara, where they learned new cheers and routines to use throughout the school year. The cheerleading squad won a spirit stick twice and got to bring the award home.

The new advisor, Mary Cairns, helped the girls throughout the year.

Win or lose, the pep squad was always there to cheer on the teams and team members.

Coach Haynes Ends Career With 2-6-2 Record, 4th In EYL

Exeter High School's varsity football team showed the value of a defense in the 1979 season as defensive breakdowns caused the Monarchs to slip to a 2-6-2 mark, the first losing record here in four years.

The season marked the debut of Exeter into the much tougher East Yosemite League, where the Monarchs suffered through a 1-4 mark, good for a tie for fourth place with two other squads.

And the 1979 season also marked the farewell of Bill Haynes as head varsity coach. The popular Haynes made a decision to step down before the year started and ended five years as head varsity coach, and 16 total seasons with the Monarch grid program.

Haynes ends with a 31-21-2 varsity coaching record, which is the top all-time percentage record, and the best JV coaching record at 61-16-3. Haynes won five JV championships and another on the varsity level.

As for the 1979 Monarchs, their offense averaged nearly 100 yards per game better than in 1978, but the defense just couldn't stop the opposition.

The season started out impressively with a 14-7 win against nearby Lindsay. It continued well the next week as a tremendous last period comeback, highlighted by a touchdown pass with only 18 seconds left, tied the highly-ranked Woodlake Tigers, 26-26.

After that, the season went downhill. Exeter played flat at home against Dinuba and Emperors won their first game of the year with a 19-13 decision. The Monarchs rallied to take the lead in the last moments against Kingsburg, but an ensuing kickoff was returned for a touchdown and the Vikings went on to win, 27-21.

Exeter had high hopes to do well in league but the Jeff Brown-led Monarch Marauders steamrolled the EYL opener, 26-15. A season high point then followed with a surprising 23-20 win over Porterville. Kirk Atkinson's play in the game earned him Valley "Athlete of the Week" for a stellar performance.

League champion Tulare then dominated Exeter, 32-2. Delano rallied in the second half to win, 28-14, and Western used a 296-yard rushing effort by George Jones to down the Monarchs, 27-18, in the season finale.

Standing out in the season was junior end Matt Hutcheson. Hutcheson set a school record with 60 catches for 946 yards, which was the highest yardage total by any end in the Valley. He also tied a record by catching 11 passes against Western for a record 162 yards.

On December 10 the EUHS Fall Sports Awards Ceremony was held. In the football section the awards were given out by coaches Bill Haynes, Ray Strable, and Doyce Lovell.

The awards were as follows: Matt Hutcheson, most valuable player; Kirk Atkinson, best defensive and offensive player; Doug Gary, best offensive lineman; and Rowdy Kyle, best defensive lineman.

Exeter, new member in the East Yosemite League, won three spots on the All-League first team: Hutcheson, Atkinson, and Kyle. Gaining a place on the second team squad was Wayne Kagy and honored with honorable mention was Bud Jones and Gary.

JV Football Has 4-6 Season Mark, 1-4 EYL Record

This year was a tough one for the Monarch JV football team with a season record of 4-6, including a 1-4 record in the East Yosemite League. This year's coaches were Manny Kouklis and Joe Faria.

The opening game this season was an easy win for the Little Monarchs as they came away with a 26-6 win over Lindsay. The second game however, did not come out as successful as Woodlake defeated the Little Monarchs, 20-0.

The next two games were a repeat of the first two. The Little Monarchs took Dinuba, 8-0, and then got a tough break with a turnover on the one against Kingsburg, losing 12-7.

The easiest win of the season for the Little Monarchs came when they met Orosi and destroyed them with a 34-0 score.

The first league game came against Monache, with a tough loss, 35-22. The Little Monarchs next faced Porterville and again were close, but lost with a 24-27 score. The next two games were losses with Tulare Union taking a 20-12 decision and the league champion Delano offense was devastating to the Little Monarchs, winning with a score of 37-6.

The final game of the season was an exciting way to finish and despite the earlier losses suffered in EYL the Little Monarchs went on the defeat Tulare Western, 14-6.

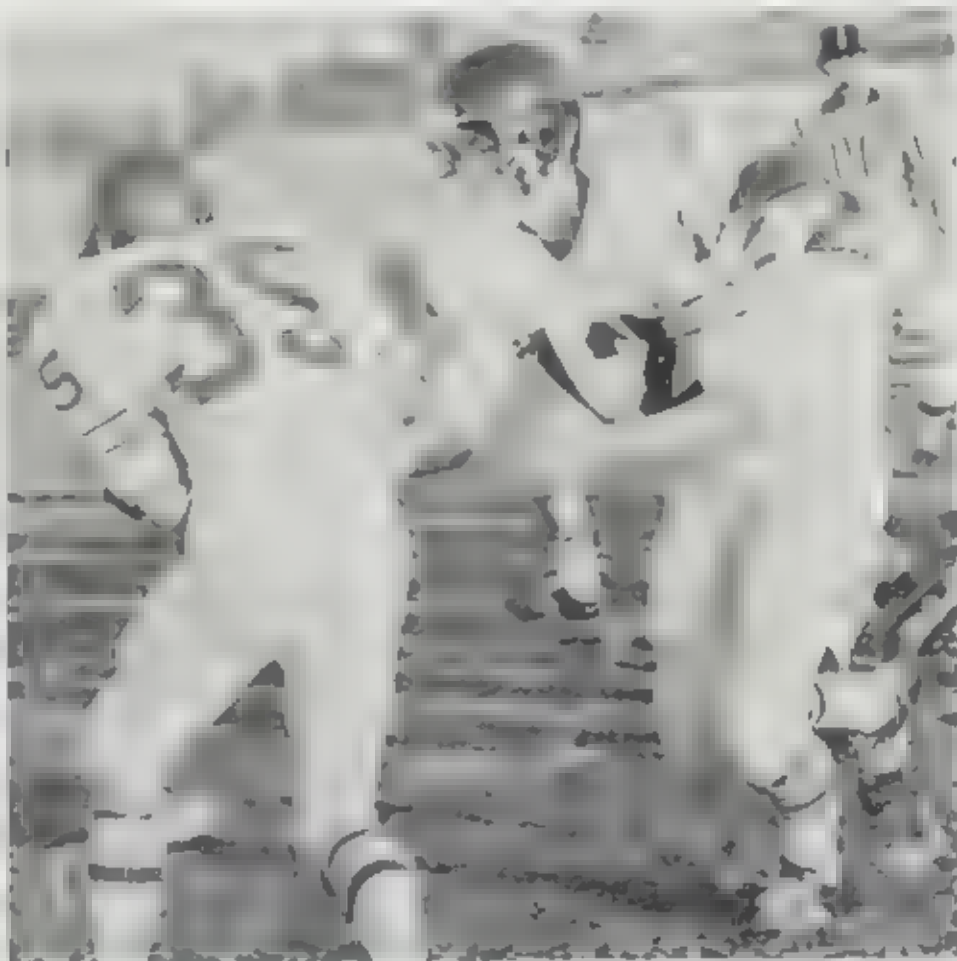

This season's end brought awards for the outstanding players: Jeff Martin received the Most Valuable Player Award. The Top Offensive Back Award went to Louis Moreno. The Top Defensive Lineman Award went to Ronnie Pardue and the Top Defensive Back Award was received by Scott Coffman.

Top: Freshman Louis Moreno runs for big yardage in the win over Western. Below: Head Coach Manny Kouklis, and assistant coach Joe Faria yell for more hustle by the defense. Chris White (50), Scott Drobush (82) and Kevin Kirkman (66) await the little Monarchs' turn to get the ball.

Frosh Football Revived; Young Gridders Go 1-6 During Season

This year the frosh football team was revived by the Exeter Monarch Booster Club and their generous fund-raising activities.

The frosh football team experienced many difficulties, winning only one game against six losses.

The mini Monarchs lost the season opener, 34-8 to Reedley.

The frosh lost their next three games; 12-0 to Tulare Union, 28-14 to Monache and 14-6 to Porterville.

The mini Monarchs then traveled to Tulare Union and came with their first victory, 22-0. Then the frosh went to Delano and lost 28-14. The last game of the season was a battle from start, but the mini Monarchs came out on the losing end of a 7-6 score against Western.

Randy Mayabb received the Most Valuable award while Jesus Banuelos and Pat Taylor got the co-captain stars. David Milner and Toni Schadi received the most improved award. Tim Morris and Mel Fernandez were the coaches.

Volleyball Captures JV Co-Title; 17-4 Varsity Makes Valley Playoffs

The 1979 volleyball season was an exceptional year for both JV and varsity teams. The JV team hustled their way to the top to capture the co-title while the varsity finished second in league with a record of 8-2 behind Tulare Union (10-0). The highlight of the varsity season was to make the Valley Playoffs for the first time in EUHS volleyball history.

Varsity coach Dwight Miller directed his team to a school record 17-4 mark and an impressive 8-2 mark for league. Getting off to an excellent start, the Varsity girls took first in the Monache Tournament. The highlight of the tournament was defeating Tulare Union to capture the number one position, Exeter's first tourney title.

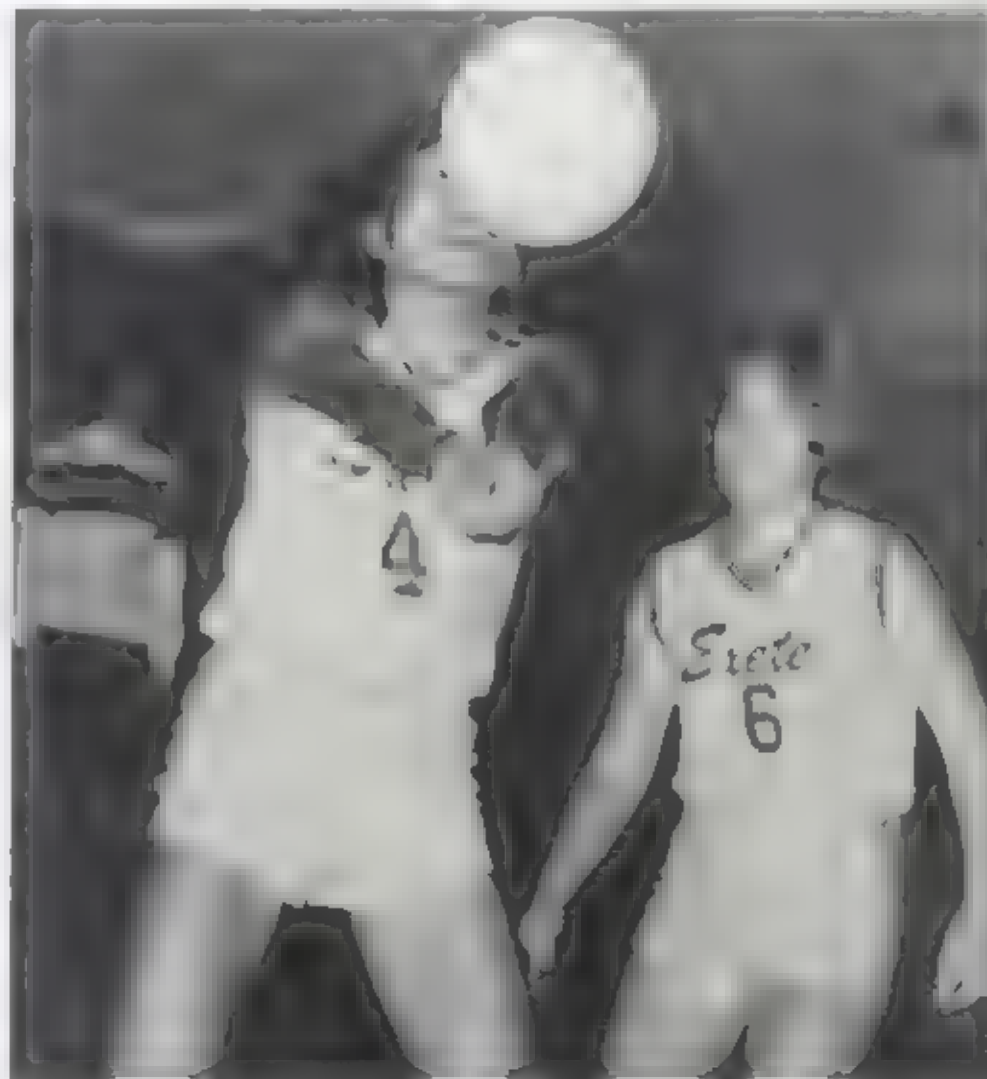

The varsity beat four schools in its league twice and their only two losses fell to Tulare Union. Wrapping up the season was a tough 15-13, 14-16, 17-19 loss to Madera in the playoffs.

With Alana Montgomery coaching, the J.V. volleyball team tied with Tulare Western for the EYL title, finishing their league season with a powerful 7-3 record, including four season-ending wins.

At the Fall Sports Awards Ceremony JV winners included Laura Cutler, most inspirational; Wendy Dismuke, captain's award; and Carolyn Streshly, most valuable.

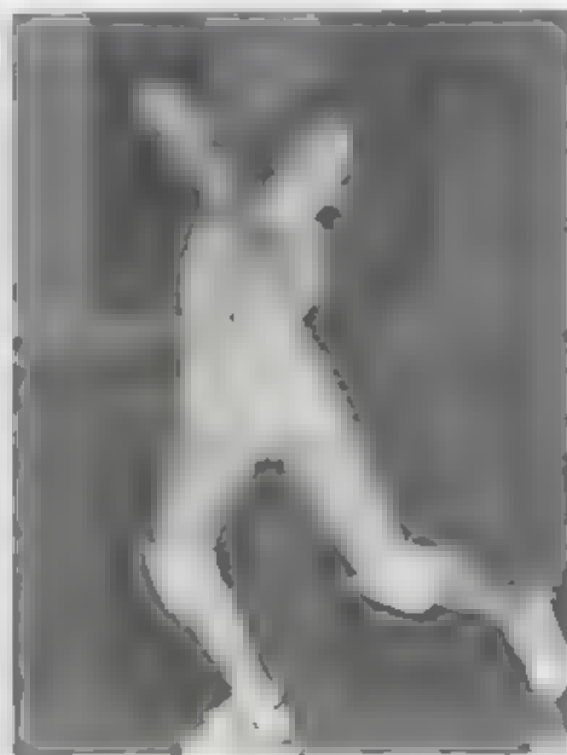

On the varsity level the awards went to Vivian Coffelt, most inspirational; Andrea Kouklis, most outstanding offensive player; Brenda Beakes, most outstanding defense; and Mitzi Hernandez was awarded most valuable.

Youth Doesn't Keep Poloists From EYL Title

Despite a youthful team and a new coach, the 1979 water polo squads had another successful year. The varsity, which had no seniors, captured an EYL co-title and placed fourth place in the valley.

After six years under Bruce Montgomery, the Monarch aquatic program was headed by new varsity coach, Tom Hayslett, and a new JV coach, Dee Hellwig. In the playoffs, the Monarchs defeated Clovis West, 7-4, but fell to Redwood, 10-7, and Reedley, 9-6, in the semi-finals. This was the fourth consecutive time the Exeter Monarchs made it to the semi-finals.

The poloists commenced their season with a victorious effort over Clovis West, 10-3. However, they dropped their next two games to Hoover, 14-4, and eventual valley championship team, Redwood, 14-13, in overtime.

The varsity water polo team started its EYL season by demolishing Delano, 22-5. The following game against Porterville, one of their top contenders, was the first league loss in 29 league games, 8-7.

Exeter swept by the next six games with style and skill. They mutilated Monache, 24-4, and drowned Tulare Union, 29-2. They sank Delano 18-6, and pounced on Porterville, 13-8. Their last two games against Monache and Tulare Union, the mighty Monarchs annihilated both with scores of 23-3 (Monache) and 30-3 (Tulare Union). The 30 goals was a school record for the most goals in one game.

Perfect Season: JV Poloists Win Them All

The junior varsity water polo team enjoyed a fantastic season as it went undefeated for both season and league.

The team consisted of three juniors, the three sophomores, and one freshman. Leading the team this year were sophomores, Joey Fontana and E.J. Stockton. Dee Hellwig was the squad's new coach.

In its first games Exeter defeated several significant opponents: Clovis West, 6-3; Hoover 7-4; Redwood, 10-3; and Mt. Whitney, 9-7.

Having proved themselves competitive against much larger schools, it set out to capture the East Yosemite League title, a goal met.

The JV poloist opened with an easy win over Delano, 22-1 and topped Porterville, 12-9, in an important game.

The Monarchs soundly defeated Monache, 18-2. Two wins were over Tulare, 1-0.

At the fall sports award banquet Scott Gardner was selected most valuable player while Joey Fontana was picked the most outstanding offensive player. Win Pescosolido was chosen best defensive player.

Monarch Runners Claim Two Titles In New League

The Monarch cross country team, directed by Joe Conley, enjoyed another fine year as they placed high in many invitational.

The Monarchs joined a new and tougher league this year, the East Yosemite league. The frosh-soph boys tied for the league champion with Porterville while the girls team was the undisputed champions of the EYL. The varsity boys placed third in the league meet.

Gail Moffitt lead the girls team to a victory in the EYL meet with a first place finish, followed by second and third place finishers Lidia Gonzales and Deon Stockton, respectively. Connie Martinez, a freshman, finished seventh. Moffitt also finished fifth in the valley competition, the best ever by an Exeter High runner. The girls finished second in the area meet and fifth in the valley meet.

The varsity boys team placed third in the league meet, led by Rudy Cruz, who was second. Isaac Gonzales placed ninth. Cruz, only a sophomore, often ran in the varsity race this year and broke the record for the three-mile run along the Friant-Kern Canal course with a time of 14:50, breaking the old record of 14:59 held by Joe Luiz.

The frosh-soph boys team placed first in the league meet and was co-champs of the EYL with Porterville. Top finishers in the league meet were Ramon Rodriguez, third; Johnny Martinez, fourth; and Bob Younghanz, fifth. Steve Milner finished tenth.

Receiving awards at the fall sports awards banquet were: varsity, Rudy Cruz, outstanding runner; and Isaac Gonzales, most valuable runner.

For the girls team: Lidia Gonzales and Stockton were co-MVP's. Moffitt was named the outstanding runner. Frosh-soph: Johnny Martinez was most valuable. Phil Slocum was most improved.

Acquafresca's Title Leads Wrestlers To 8th In Valley

Varsity wrestling at Exeter High School in 1979-80 was revived with a new coach and a Valley titlist, Brian Acquafresca, to highlight a good year.

Acquafresca, a 154 pounder, was only fourth in league last year, but in a tremendous one-year improvement rallied to become only the third Valley champion at EUHS.

Acquafresca, the school's first junior to gain a first place, also won a league championship and was a Yosemite Division runner-up.

As a team in Valley, Exeter was a very respectable eighth. Other wrestlers adding to the eighth place position were Marty Gonzales, who placed third and Jerry Severson, who placed fourth. Acquafresca and Gonzales qualified for the state meet.

Coaching the Monarchs was Joe Faria, who after a one-year absence, lead the Monarch to a third place in league, with a 6-4 record for dual matches, and an overall 7-5 season mark.

At the Yosemite Divisional tournament besides Acquafresca's second, was Gonzales, who placed fourth, plus Severson and Fred Navarro, who ended with fifths.

At league, the Monarchs sent seven wrestlers into the championship round. Finishing with firsts were Gonzales, Acquafresca, and Fred Cardenas. Placing second were Julian Martinez, Fred Navarro, Frank Hernandez and Rusty Stover.

At the Winter Awards Ceremonies, receiving honors were Acquafresca, Most Improved; Fred Cardenas, Most takedowns; Rusty Stover, Most pins. Gonzales and Acquafresca shared the Most Valuable wrestler award.

JV Wrestling Has 9-3 Season Mark, Second In EYL

The JV wrestling team probably did better than expected, in 1979-80, moving into the tougher East Yosemite League.

One of the toughest matches for the JV wrestlers was against Tulare Western where Exeter defeated TW, 36-29, for a second place position in league.

The Little Monarchs ended the season with a 7-3 league dual meet record and a 9-3 season mark.

The JV wrestlers attended three tournaments, which were the Reedley JV Tournament, the Tulare Frosh-Soph Tournament and EYL Tournament to help their skills.

In the EYL Tournament the Little Monarchs also placed second with three individual league champions and four second place winners.

Placing first were Greg Cottingham, Ron Pardue and John Barnes. The wrestlers taking second were George Stimson, Kevin Sapien, Rick Lockwood and Darren Smith.

Receiving Winter Sports Ceremony awards were: Greg Cottingham, most valuable wrestler; Rick Lockwood, most improved; Kevin Sapien, most pins; and Darren Smith, most takedowns.

Monarch Cagers' Bright Spot Was Win Over Cards

Two tournaments and three home games started the varsity boys basketball team off in pre-season play. Despite their 1-8 record, the Monarchs were very competitive.

Their only win came against Lindsay when the hoopsters took the Cardinals, 55-34.

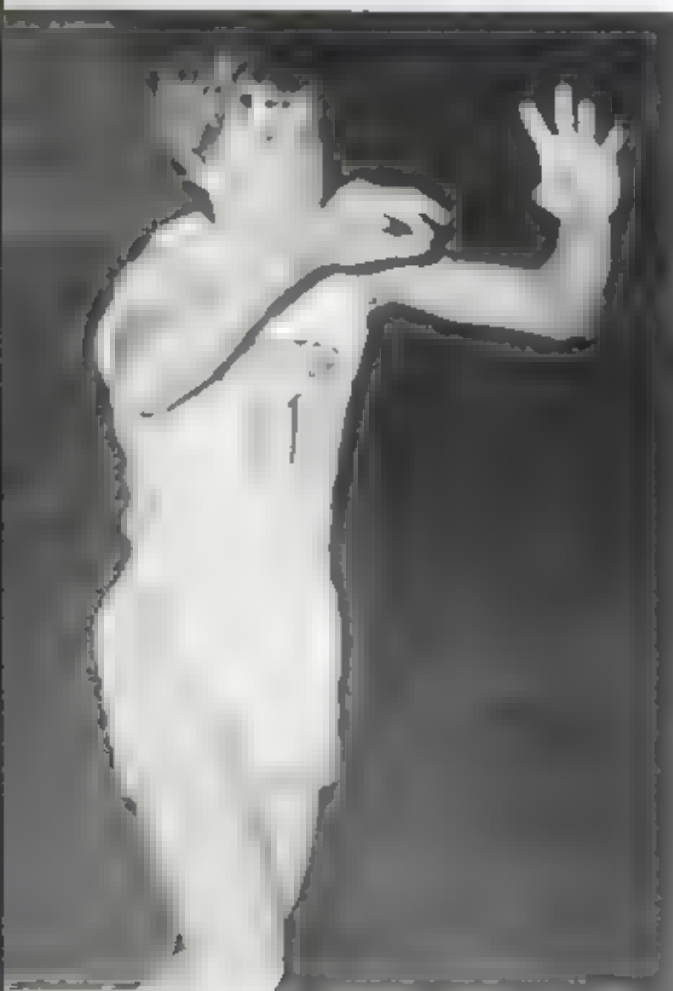

Of the eight non-league losses, the Monarchs either led or were tied at the end of the third quarter in six of those defeats, including highly-rated Woodlake.

Close defeats came against Reedley, Mt. Whitney, and Orosi.

In their first tournament, the Tulare Classic, the Monarchs fell to Tulare Western and Bakersfield. The Polly Wilhelmsen Tournament in Visalia brought no better luck as the cagers lost to WYL power Mt. Whitney and Orosi.

Wilbur Smith New Coach, Cagers End 6th Varsity Cagers Again Last.

Despite new coach Wilbur Smith's arrival, the Exeter High varsity basketball team could not improve over last year's losing ways, as they finished sixth with an 0-10 mark in league and 1-18 season.

In their first league contest the Monarchs played a tough Porterville Panther team at home and had a hard time staying with the bigger, more experienced Panthers. Exeter's defense was fine but their offense was not sharp, as was the case all season. The Monarchs lost, 56-43. The next week they remained home and lost to the Monache Marauders, 37-34.

The Monarchs then traveled to play Western but dropped one to the Mustangs, 68-54.

Exeter also found it hard to stay with the more experienced Tulare Redskins who pressed through the whole game while handing the Monarchs their sixth straight loss in league competition. The score was 66-52.

The Union game seemed to take some of the fight out of the Monarchs as they dropped their next four games, all by at least ten.

Exeter had one of the lowest per game scoring average in the history of the school (42.6) which resulted in them losing many close games, despite good defense.

Tim Snodgrass was the leading scorer (9.4 average) and Wayne Kagy was the leading rebounder. Snodgrass was given the most valuable player award. Danny Riportella was selected the most improved player and Rich Jacobsen was named the most inspirational player. Kirk Atkinson was the team captain.

Close Losses Drop JV Boys To 6th In EYL

The Junior varsity basketball team started off the year with a new coach, Tim Morris, and with a lot of close losses ended the season with a 3-14 record.

The team had a fair beginning with a 3-4 non league record, only to place a disappointing sixth in league, ending at 0-10 league record.

The games won by the JV's were Woodlake, 38-32; Lindsay, 49-47, and Orosi, 36-35.

The leading scorer for the Little Monarchs was E.J. Stockton who averaged 9.4 points per game. Awards given out this year were Most Valuable player, Stockton, Most Inspirational, John Delgado; and Tom Jennings, Outstanding Defense.

Monarch Boosters Revive Frosh Boys Basketball

This year the freshman basketball team was revived by the Monarch Booster club. It was the first EUHS freshman basketball team in three years.

Under the direction of first-year coach Bill Gorbach, the freshman gained a lot of experience that they will need in later years.

The Mini-Monarchs opened the season at Hanford, losing 28-19.

After losing to Mt. Whitney, 36-19, the freshman went on to win their next three games. Two of the wins were Woodlake, 46-19, at Woodlake, and 41-11 at home, along with a non-league victory over Monache 27-23.

The Mini Monarchs went to the Orosi Invitational tournament and won one of three games.

The Mini-Monarchs opened league play losing to Porterville, 31-18, before winning the first of only two league victories against Monache, 33-24.

After losing their next five games the freshman beat Tulare Western, 42-38.

Tim Lurz was named Most Valuable, Ronnie Rogers was picked Most Improved while Louie Moreno was awarded the Most Inspirational award.

Miller Takes Over As Girls Hoop Coach During Rebuilding Year

Girls varsity basketball started its fifth year at EUHS with a new coach, Dwight Miller, and new home uniforms.

The team was very young, being made up mainly of underclassmen. Despite their little experience the players showed much improvement at the end of the season.

The team was lead by four-year varsity player, Brenda McNeil. McNeil set the school career scoring record with a total of 647 points for the year and averaged 7.8 points a game. McNeil also set records for one game in assists (8) and steals (12).

The girls' varsity season record was 4-18; while in league they were 1-9; The non-league mark was 3-9.

At the winter sports awards ceremony McNeil received the most valuable player award and Sabina Roldan took the best defensive player award.

JV Girl Cagers Win Four Games In Second Season

The JV girls basketball squad had a 4-15 season record and a 1-9 league mark in its second year of existence.

Replacing Doug Dethlefs as head coach was Ginny McNeil and as assistant coach was Fred McNeil.

The JV team entered for the first time the Delano tournament. Highlighting this event was Exeter's tight squeeze past Tulare Union which put the cagers in sixth place.

The JV girls won three non-league games and won one league against Delano at home.

Mary Dungan led the team scoring with 96 points, tying the school's JV record.

Both the varsity and JV girls teams held a car wash which enabled them to purchase sweats and uniforms for the varsity team.

Winning awards at the Winter Sports Ceremony were: Susan Tash, most valuable; Kelly Tankersley, hustle award; and Vicky Edwards, most improved.

Swift Swimmers Hoped To Make Waves In EYL

The EUHS swim team, under new coach Tom Hayslett, expected to have another outstanding season in 1980.

Leading the 38-man squad was junior Diane Smith, who was a two-time Valley champion and currently holds every EUHS girl's record.

Another returning asset for the boys was Dana Kirkpatrick, who took fourth place in Valley last year as a freshman.

Other stand-outs were junior David Atkinson, who holds the breaststroke record and seniors Melanie Goularte and Kirk Atkinson who were strong freestylers.

The team received help from freshmen Patti Waldrum, Kari Kirkpatrick and Mary Dungan, who have had past experience in age-group competition.

The diving team, again coached by Alana Montgomery, was headed by senior Brenda Beakes, who was last year's league champion and was fourth place in Valley as a junior.

Backing up Brenda was senior Lorraine Ulbricht, who placed 11th in Valley as a sophomore.

Top divers for the boys' team were returning divers Loman Phillips and David Hamilton.

Entering the season the boys' aquatic team had a dual meet winning streak of 33, while the girls have a 23-meet winning streak.

Baseball Welcomed Improved Facility, Added Frosh Team

Baseball at Exeter High School featured many changes in the 1980 season. These changes ranged from a new freshman team, coached by Kevin Lehr, to a new press box and bleachers for the varsity diamond, to an entry into the tougher East Yosemite League.

The new bleachers and press box, donated by work of the Exeter Lions Club, make it nicer to view the varsity games. The varsity, coached for the second year by Ray Strable, won two and lost three in early nonleague action. Top early season players for the varsity were returning lettermen Robert Stowers, Mike Wyatt, Ron Watson, Craig Herron and Rick Dreo.

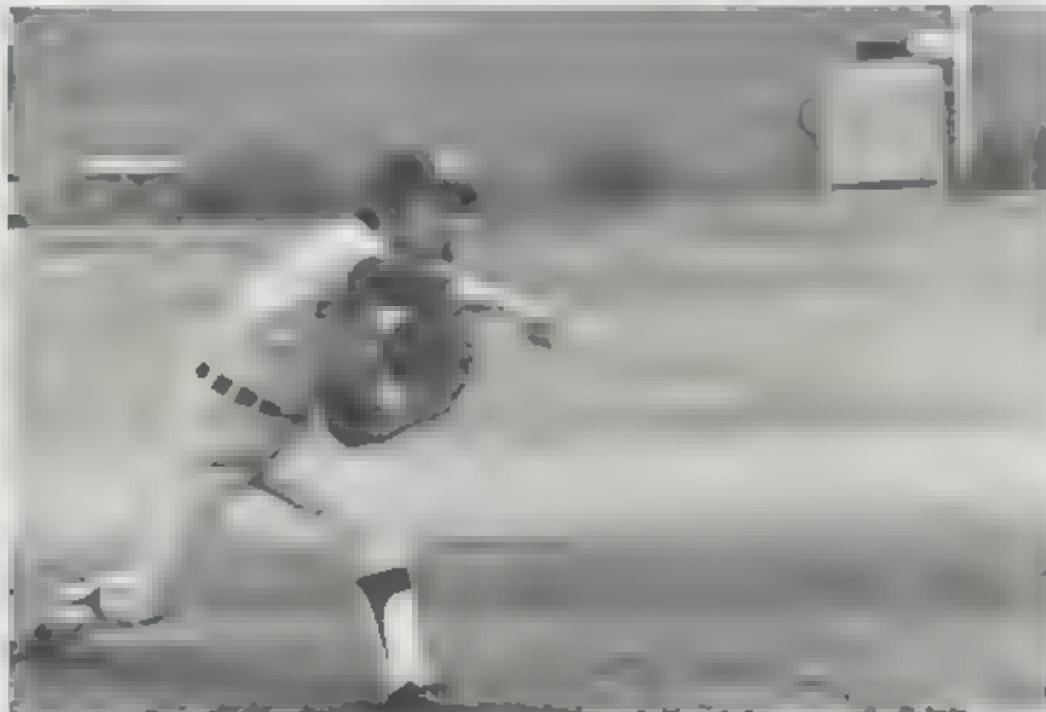

The JV's, again led by George Cisneros, got off to a great start by winning its first four games in impressive fashion. The freshmen, who won three of their first four contests, also welcomed a new field carved out of the north part of Dobson Field.

Sanders, Miller: New Coaching For EUHS Tennis

For the third consecutive year the tennis team has had a coaching change. Coy Sanders and Dwight Miller served as this year's coaches.

The netters played in a new league and faced much stiffer competition.

Last year the girls placed sixth in the CSL while the boys were fifth in league.

The No. 1 girls singles player was again Renee Wichowski while No. 2 was Jane Wanzer.

The No. 1 boys singles was Scott Gardner, followed by Win Pescosolido.

The top girls doubles team was Andrea Kouklis and Caryn Medemson. For No. 1 boys doubles was Kelly Alred and Mark Jones.

In early nonleague matches the boys and girls each won four out of five matches heading into EYL play.

EUHS Track Strength Was In Distances

The Monarch track team entered the 1980 season with a new league and a new boys coach.

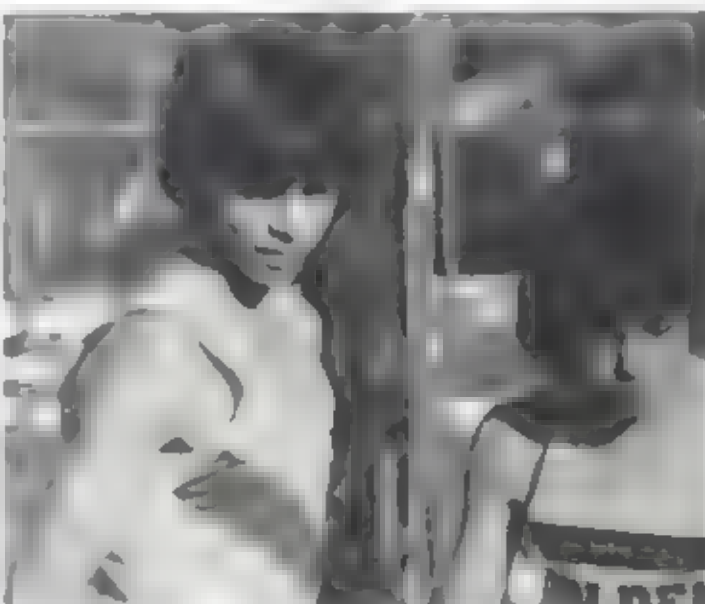

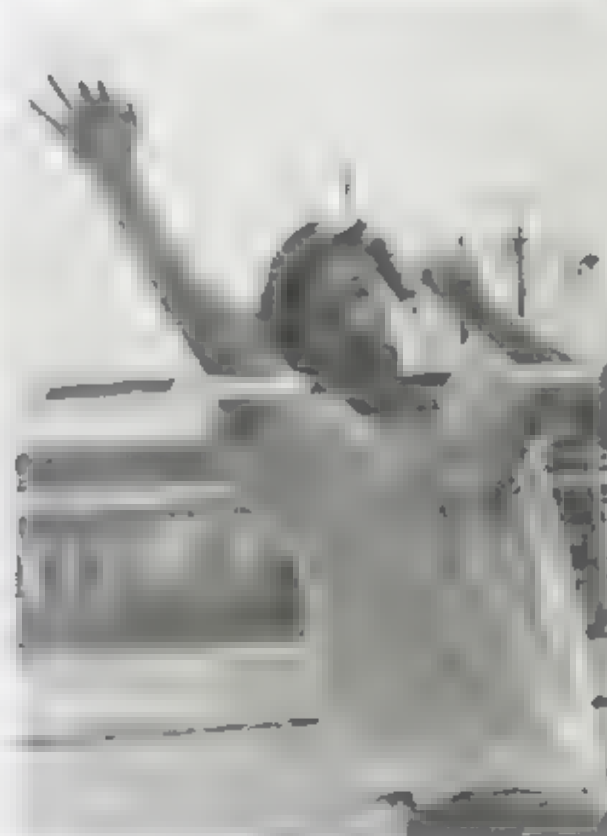

Joe Conley returned as the girls coach while first-year coach Dennis Dismuke coached the boys.

The leaders for the girls was Gail Moffitt, who holds the school record for the mile and two mile. Other top performers were Lidia Gonzales (440/880), Connie Martinez (mile/880), Deon Stockton (mile/2 mile), Nancy Hammond (220/440), Valerie Zapasnik (220/440), and Lisa Jones (shot/discus).

Some of the boy's leaders were Elvin Ortiz (mile/440), Darren Smith (mile/440), Max Roldan (mile), Sk.P Murray (mile), Rudy Cruz (2 mile), Felipe Perez (2 mile), John Martinez (2 mile), Phil Slocum (2 mile), Isaac Gonzales (880), Mark Ramos (880), Mike Chatterton (high jump), Juan Gonzales (shot/discus), and Craig Taylor (shot/discus).

The Monarchs entered the tough East Yosemite league and the track team also competed in events such as the Mt Whitney Relays, Selma Relays, San Joaquin Relays, Orosi Invitationals, Lemoore Kiwanis Meet and Sanger Metric Classic to make for a busy spring.

EUHS Softball Had Improved Hopes Under New Coach Lakey

The Monarch softball team showed early promise in its third season. The Monarchs had a new head coach in 1980 as Larry Lakey stepped in for Bob Trowbridge.

A much improved Dobson field was the site for the EUHS home softball team.

With several returning members, the team got off to a good start by defeating Washington Union, 8-6, in their opening game of the season. They lost to Kingsburg, 7-4, but came back and defeated Woodlake in their final non-league contest by a score of 5-3.

A change in league placement was also made as the Monarch girls switched back to the East Yosemite League. Two years ago they played in the EYL and finished seventh with a record of 1-11. Last season they played in the Central Sequoia League and finished seventh with a 1-11 league record and 3-14 overall. This season the girls had already won two of the three games heading into the league opener.

One of the highlights of the softball season was played in the KTIP tournament in Porterville during Easter Week.

Experienced, But Young Golfers Faced Tough New League

The EUHS varsity golf team took a mixture of youth and experience into their new East Yosemite League season in 1980.

The Monarchs, CSL League co-champions last year, lost three valuable senior players from the 1979 team due to graduation, but still had much talent returning.

Senior Rich Jacobsen, Keith Anderson, and Brook Haynes along with sophomores Bobby Adamson (All-league in 1979) and David Brown were back from last year's squad to make up the core of this year's team.

Others that saw action were sophomores Lloyd Anderson and Jeff Powell along with freshman Larry Goates.

The coach was Larry Anderson, who has piloted the Monarchs to league titles in five of the last seven years.

In league play, the Monarchs got to golf on several new courses, including River Island in Springville, the Tulare Country Club, and Delano.

The EYL race was expected to be close as reflected by a tight 12-12 tie to Monache in the league opener away. In a non-league match, Exeter edged Kingsburg, 13-11.

Clubs Drop In Membership, But Just As Involved

Students looking to be more active after the final bell flocked to old and new organizations on the EUHS campus.

Although students wanting and trying to get the student play back on once again came up an advisor short, they weren't discouraged. Students went right out and started a new Ski Club. The Ski Club started its first year with 20 members and many trips to the

The band and choir were in for a big year of changes, ranging from a change in directors to being at school 7:40 in the morning for their band and choir classes. The Monarch Golden Pride Band was led by Don Good. The choir was led by Melinda Ray.

EUHS organizations were under their membership from the last year. One big reason was strict meeting attendance rules. The clubs dropped in membership but only students who wanted to be in the organizations were there.

Don Good Takes Over Direction Of Golden Pride Band

Under the new direction of Don Good, the Golden Pride Monarch Band was kept busy with many festivals, competitions, and parades to attend. They held concerts and played for baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies. This year's band was young, made up predominately of freshmen and sophomores, which should be beneficial in the years to come.

The band showed its talents at many wrestling matches and basketball games, being the main attraction at halftime on "Band Nights".

The band again competed in the All Western Band Review in Long Beach but was unfortunately disqualified from the competition. They competed in the Selma Band Festival, where they marched away with third place. At the California Music Educators Association Festival in Porterville, the band was rated for its concert music.

Sophomore Phil Slocum, on the tuba, was named to the prestigious All-State Honor Band while Eric Saeugling, Daniel Tuttle, Denise Reyna, and Dean Sutton were named to the Tulare-Kings County Honor Band, which performed on March 8 in the Porterville Auditorium.

'New Look' Choir Had New Director, Magic Mountain Trip

The EUHS Choir went through many changes during 1979-80. The choir had a new director and made a drastic color change. Mrs. Melinda Ray served as the choir's new director. The girls changed their "look" by wearing burgundy gowns and the boys wore grey tuxedos.

The choir had two major concerts with the band: the Christmas Concert on December 19 and the Spring Concert on March 27.

Fund-raisers kept the choir very busy. The singers started off the year with a car wash. A float was sponsored during Homecoming. During the Christmas season the choir sold bells. They had a basketball concession, and a dance on March 7.

The choir raised the money mainly for the Magic Mountain competition on May 8 - 9 and 10. There the group sang for ratings and enjoyed the amusement park's rides.

Several singers were named to honor choirs. Susan Copeland made State Honor Choir, held in Sacramento. County Honor Choir members were Lorna McIntosh, Pam Childres, Jim Hinkley, Bruce Greer, Greg Burkhart, Jayme White, Lisa Goates, Angie Gutierrez, and Laura Nielsen.

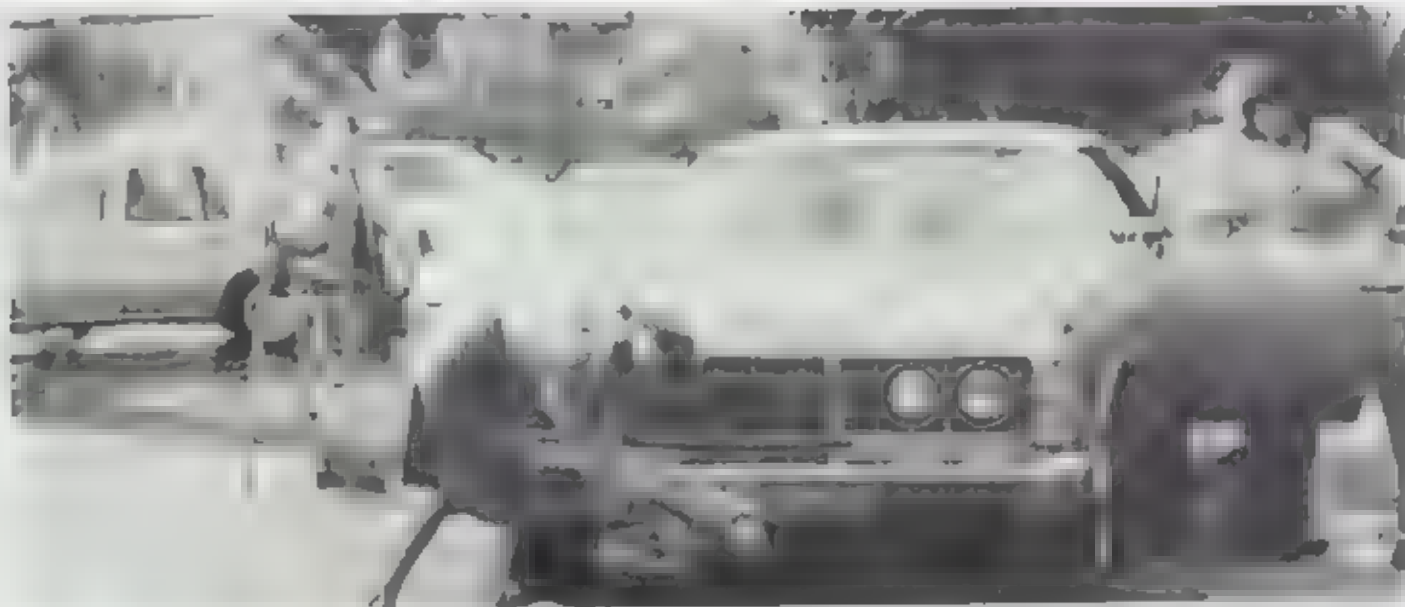

The piano accompanists were Charlene Nielsen and Mary Dungan.

Student Government Has 'Face Lift' With Change To Homeroom Representatives

Student Government underwent a face lift on September as the Student Council representation changed from class officers and club presidents to homeroom representatives. This change was due to the new homeroom system introduced this year. The council, although less active in the past, offered some suggestions which the steering committee carried out.

The steering committee, which consisted of student body officers, head cheerleader and songleader, student representative to the school board, and four representatives at-large, was a powerful and active group. The members met at 8 a.m. until first period to plan rallies and Homecoming week and to solve several problems that EUHS students were faced with during the year.

Homecoming week was the committee's most hectic time as they were the group responsible for planning each event and taking care of every detail. Their efforts were successful as everyone had a great time getting involved in the activities.

Attending CASC (California Association of Student Councils) meetings was another activity the steering committee participated in.

Fellow Students

As I reflect on the past year, I think of some very hectic times for me, but I am still very thankful the EUHS Student Body gave me the opportunity to serve as president of such a fine organization.

During this year I have gained some valuable experience and I have certainly learned much about human nature by working closely with the members of the steering committee. This group, probably the most powerful group of students on the campus, has been most effective in achieving its goals once set.

I must thank the members for their assistance and cooperation through the rough spots, and also to our advisor, Mr. McGregor, for his generous support in all our endeavors. We were very fortunate to have such an excellent advisor who was truly interested in the students' welfare.

In closing, I would like to urge students at EUHS to stay involved in school and keep up the traditions that are important. I wish you all success in all of your endeavors and may God bless you.

Sincerely,

Student Body president

Aaron Collins

Members Drop, But FFA Still Largest Club

FFA kept its record of being the largest club on the Exeter High School campus, although dropping their membership from previous years.

Getting the members active in the club activities wasn't hard since the FFA had so many of them. This year the club had a point award system. The most active people (the ones with the most points) receive a trip at the end of the year.

Heading off the fund-raising activities was the Annual FFA Barbeque, plus many concessions stands in the fall and winter.

Many public speaking and judging contests were entered. Both novice and advanced officers entered in the opening and closing ceremonies contest and placed in the finals.

Both chapter farmer and greenhand initiations were a success. Twenty-five chapter farmers and 40 greenhands received their degree.

Still the big event of the year was the Tulare County Fair. Members entered the fair with their projects from the previous year.

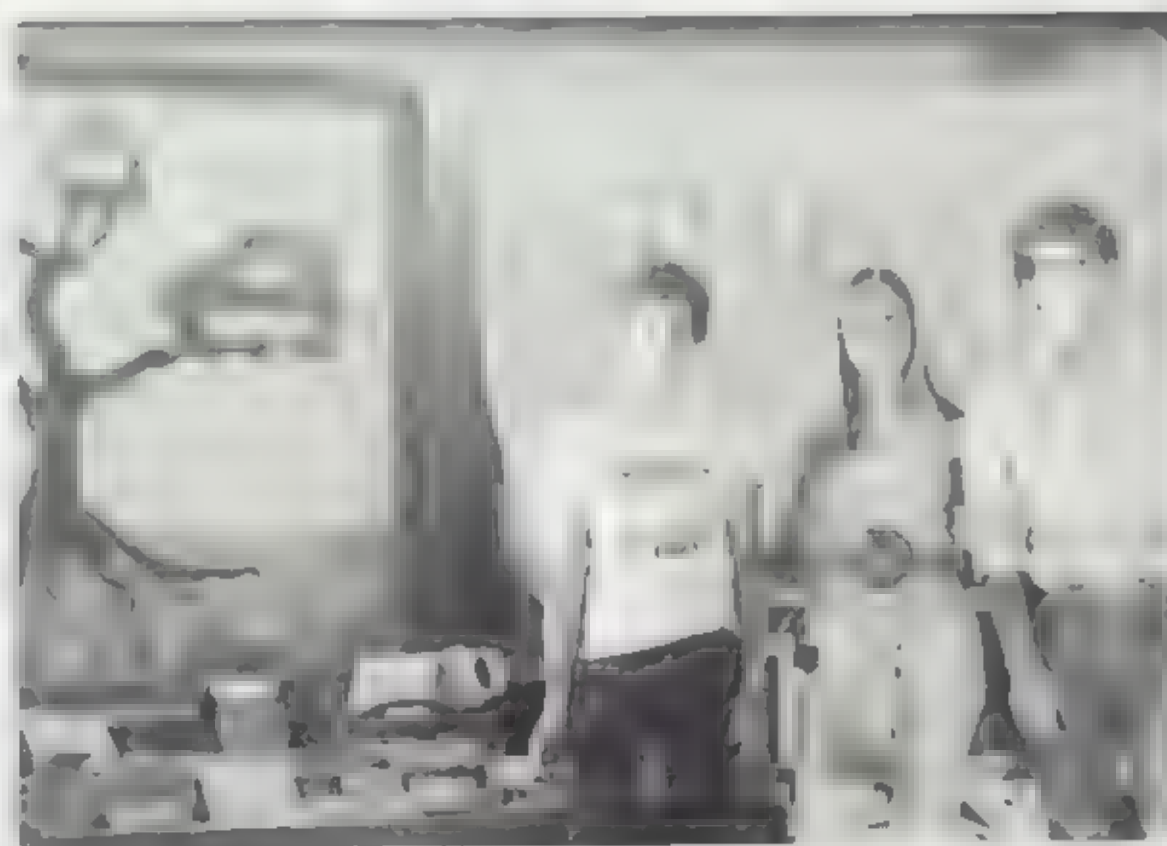

FFA advisors were Russ Brandt, Larry Lakey, Wendy Reed, and Wayne Weller.

CYC Meetings, Cinco De Mayo Top MECHA Year

Highlighting MECHA Club's year were the Fresno Chicano-Youth Conferences on January 19 and March 22. During these conferences there were speakers to listen to, a car show, basketball, volleyball, and other activities.

Making Cinco De Mayo a success kept MECHA busy. Planning a dance and an assembly were among the activities involved.

A trip brought fun and pleasure to club members at the end of a prosperous year.

Club advisor for the 1979-80 school year was Mr. Coy Sanders. He held many of the meetings in Room 30.

This year's MECHA Club Officers were: Lupe Maldonado, president; Carlos Rios, vice president; Rosa Vasquez, treasurer; and Maricela Rios, secretary.

CSF Activities: 8th Grade Visit, Vintage Days

The California Scholarship Federation was not one of the more popular clubs on campus this year, but it was one of the more important ones. It provided certain provisions for kids planning on a college education.

Again, due to the state budget cutbacks funds were low. The main activity planned was a trip to California State University, Fresno during Vintage Days in the spring. Members of the organization also accompanied the eighth grade classes around campus during EUHS visitation.

The 1979-80 officers were: Win Pescosolido, president; and Richard Jacobson, secretary-treasurer. The CSF Advisor was John Liston, teacher of geometry, algebra 2, chemistry, and physics.

Rally Club Starts Secret Pal Program; Sells Ribbons, T-Shirts

The Rally Club was more active this year than in the past. One of its biggest projects was making signs for the games.

Rally club members had secret pals this year and every season. Members would then send many types of surprises such as cakes, cookies, candies and would sometimes make phone calls to their secret pals, the Monarch athletes.

For money-raising events, the Rally Club sold T-shirts, pennants, shakers, megaphones, and license plates. The biggest money-raising event was the ribbons they sold during Homeroom classes every Friday.

Rally club officers were: Linda Lofgren, president; Melanie Maass, vice-president; Deon Stockton, secretary; and Andrea Kemp, treasurer. Stephanie Dutsch was in charge of all sales. Marilyn Hadley was again faculty advisor.

Palo Alto Convention, Fund-Raisers Spark Keywanettes' Year

Keywanettes, in only their second year, had about twenty members this year. Keywanettes became a new service club at EUHS in 1978 when a group of girls went to Dr. William Streshly asking about forming the club.

The club had many different projects this year. One was to raise money they sold flowers at one of the football games. They also sold baked goods and other hand-made items at a crafts bazaar in the Memorial Building.

The members of the service club went to a convention in Palo Alto where they met with many Keywanettes clubs of California and discussed ways to help raise money and make the clubs better.

At Christmas time they made a snowman out of napkins, which they put out in front of the Atkinson's house on Kaweah Ave. by a sign to tell the night's low temperature.

Officers for Keywanettes were: Brenda Beakes, president; Mary Garcia, vice-president; Melanie Goularte, secretary; and Julie Stutsman, treasurer.

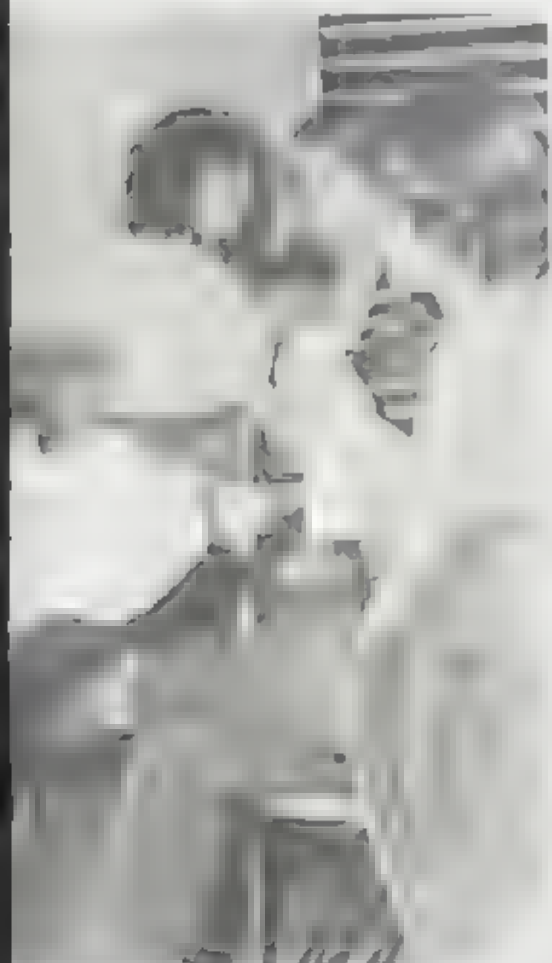

Mrs. Barbara Beakes, the advisor, supervised all meetings, which were held Monday nights in room 17.

Second Year Was Success For Key Club

The Exeter Union High School Key Club had a very busy second year.

With the help of advisor, David Ziessler, the club did many community projects as well as money-making events to fund their winter ski trip.

Included in their projects was the maintenance of the community bulletin board, helping the Kiwanis with various events, and sponsoring lunchtime programs for the student body.

The club's main money-making event was the sale of Christmas trees. This was the second year they have sold the trees. The club made a profit of about $700.

Also this year the club entered a float in the Homecoming Parade. The members spent a long time on their project, but were not rewarded with any accolades.

The member's favorite event of the year was their first-annual ski trip. The club traveled to Mammoth Mountain Ski Resort for four days in February.

Craig Taylor, president; Scott Gardner, vice-president; and Howard Gaunt, secretary-treasurer, led the Key Club through a very successful year.

Eggs, Vinegar, Syrup Initiates 36 Into Block E Club

Can you imagine pouring eggs, vinegar and syrup through a funnel down your pants? Well, some of the Block E members did and it proved to be a hilarious stunt for onlookers but embarrassing for the 36 initiates at the March 6 banquet.

Block E is the largest club on the EUHS campus, consisting of approximately 200 members. It was headed by advisors Coy Sanders, Dwight Miller, Bill Haynes and Bruce Brandt.

One of the highlights of the year was when Coach Bill Haynes received a Block E jacket for his 14 years of service in coaching. Also, the club showed their appreciation to the cafeteria staff for their help in preparing for the banquet by presenting them with four potted plants.

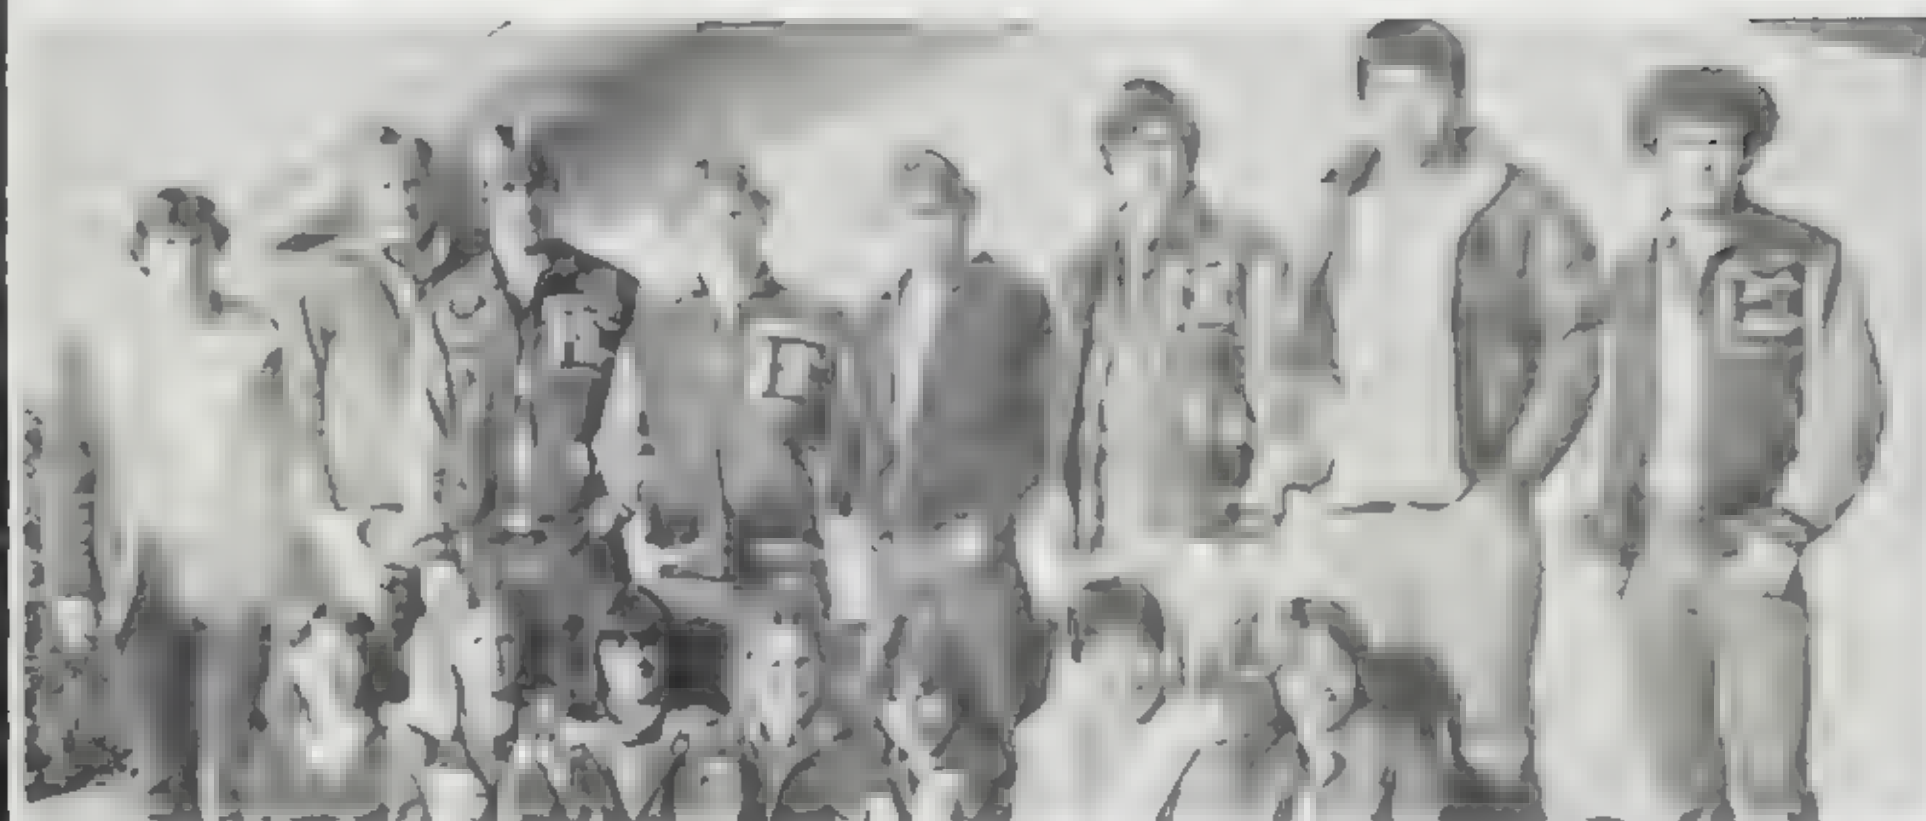

Among their various activities the club sponsored was a frisbee contest and a volleyball tournament. It also held a concession stand at the Fall Festival.

State Conventions, Meetings Highlight HERO's Year

The HERO Club and advisor, Catherine Diaz, went through an exceptionally good year.

The club had a few fund raisers such as a calendar sale. The club ran a concession booth during the Exeter Fall Festival, and sponsored a dance in mid-April, among other activities.

Part of the funds received by the club were used to take a trip late in the school year.

Advisor Diaz accompanied club members to the many conventions and state meetings which were presented all around the valley.

Club president Donna Cain, said, "The meetings were a lot of fun and I learned a lot about HERO." The initials in the club "HERO," stand for "Homemaking Education Related Occupations."

The Club officers this year were: Donna Cain, president; Vincent Ramos, treasurer; Rosaura Maldonado, secretary; and Elva Castro, vice-president.

Popular Flower Sales, Concessions Raise French Club Funds

Twenty-two members of the French Club had many activities this year to raise funds for their annual Spring trip.

One of the main money makers was the flower sales. The club's members again sold carnations during Homecoming Week and Valentine's Day. This tradition has been both very profitable and popular since

The club had a bake sale in the city park for Exeter's annual Fall Festival and made $91.50. The members also worked in the concession stand for two EUHS basketball games to raise money.

The spring trip at the end of the year was chaperoned by Nan-Celia Horobetz, the club's advisor. Everyone enjoyed themselves learning about the French culture.

French Club officers for this year were Lynne Cook, president; Deon Stockton, vice-president; Pamela Slocum, secretary and Melanie Maass, treasurer.

Annual Fashion Show Dominates Year For EUHS Hi-Deb Models

Hi-Deb held its annual fashion show entitled, "The Exciting World of Fashion," in December. During the show the girls modeled such things as sportswear, casualwear, officewear and evening gowns. All EUHS girls were invited to attend this event.

Throughout the program Exeter Hi-Deb representative Lori Stewart read something about each model and also modeled herself. The ten girls that modeled had a lot of help to make the show interesting from Jeri Silva, Gottschalk's Fashion Coordinator.

Throughout the school year Exeter Hi-Debs do various things for Gottschalk's along with eight other schools from the area.

They promote Gottschalk's by modeling in different departments and setting up displays. They also had a bake sale and attended make-up, hair, and modeling clinics.

Drama Club Inactive With No Plays

This year's Drama Club consisted of 15 members. Because of a sufficient amount of funds left over from last year, $796, no fund raisers were necessary for 1979-80.

A problem for the Drama Club during the year was no plays being held, due to lack of an advisor. Because of this, no Student Body Play or Senior Play was held for the second consecutive year, putting a damper on the club's activities.

Club members searched for an advisor and director to produce another one of EUHS's outstanding plays, but none was found on the faculty.

Despite the difficult year, the club was kept together by the officers. They included Bill Coffman, president; Trini Salgado, vice-president; Deanna Chavez, treasurer; and Teresa Rogers, secretary.

EXETER - FARMERSVILLE - WOODLAKE

Lena Löfgren Was Swedish Delight For Exeter High

I am from the town Eskilstuna in Sweden. It is a lot bigger than Exeter. About 92,000 people live in the town and suburbs.

To live there is really different from here. First of all: we talk Swedish. The countryside there is hills, forests, fields with wheat, etc., and lakes. There is snow in the winter, and no orange trees.

Most of the time I travel by bus or bike. A car is not that important like it is here for most people.

The school is a bit harder, we have a lot more subjects, but not every day. There are no sports in school. If you want to go out for a sport, you join a club. My interests are horses (I ride horses in a riding school there). We learn school riding and jumping. Sometimes we have competitions. I also joined the Swedish Blue Star, an organization for girls who want to join the Swedish defense.

We learn how to work at a farm, and when the farmers have to go for the military service we take over. We also work sometimes in the summer so they can get a vacation. I also like sking and dancing. (Have been a Swedish Folk Dancer for eight years.)

I have my mom, dad and sister (20) at home, and I miss them very much (I'm always strong and say "no", when people ask, but of course it feels a little bit inside).

As a nice end of this year I want to thank everybody that helped me this year with school, and everything. And I will always remember this little quiet town, and school, this warm, nice weather, orange trees, and my very nice host family (The Dudley's) in Lemon Cove and all my friends

Love to you,

Lena Löfgren

Classified Staff Worked Through Budget Cutbacks

Classified staff had a somewhat difficult year with budget restrictions; despite this, nine new persons joined the behind the scene workers

New staff members at EUHS are Cherre Gardner, library aide; Emma Lee, secretary; Frances Lopez, cafeteria worker; Laraine Pfirrmann, assistant superintendent's secretary; Sharen Mangels, cafeteria secretary; Ellen Williams, library aide; Sally Larson, Learning Center teacher's aide; Mark Lemus, custodian; and Ron Witt, bus driver.

Dobson Field has continued being worked on by the custodians.

Occuring were changes in relocating an office. The projects office was moved from the EUHS district office to Wilson Elementary, giving the district office workers more space

Custodians changed the hallways by adding in some new lockers for the students.

To make the staff's work a little easier the projects office received a new copy machine, Karen Raymond (work experience secretary) received a typewriter and Clarence Lambert (maintenance supervisor) received a new mower-sweeper.

Asphalt was also put in around the auto-shop cafeteria area and at the Smith Gym driveway.

Price Goes Up But So Does Effort Of Busy ACTA Staff

Some 20 hardworking members made up this year's ACTA staff. They worked during first period, before school, after school, and at numerous two-hour sessions to meet deadlines. They tried hard to make this year's ACTA All Valley, like the 1979 ACTA.

Due to soaring production costs and better quality material, this year's yearbook price increased $2, up to $7 with a student body card and $12 without. This was the first price increase since 1973.

This year's editor was senior Mike Wyatt. He was on the ACTA staff for four years. He chose layout designs and organization of the yearbook. The advisor was Chuck Knox. He has been advisor for six consecutive years.

Publishing the ACTA was Walsworth Publishing Co. in Marceline, Mo., while Don Kille of rural Exeter was again the yearbook sales representative. Larry Lee was the senior photographer.

The ACTA went on sale in April, keeping staff members busy at brunch. Staff members were also kept active by selling football programs, which brought in $400, and selling ACTA ads, which brought in $2,500. They also ran a basketball concession.

Two of the year's highlights were an October journalism conference in Visalia and the CSU, Fresno Spring Press Conference in April. The staff competed in various competitions, along with over 400 student at CSUF.

The yearbook was completed on March 20 and the yearbook was distributed to students during the last week of school.

'Monarch' Presented Clean, New Look For The 1980's

The Exeter Union High School newspaper, "The Monarch," had a clean, new look for the 1979-80 school year.

Staying with the well-received magazine format, the journalism staff tried some new graphics to make "The Monarch" more visually appealing.

Chuck Knox was again the "Monarch" advisor. Under his direction, editor Renee Wichowski assigned a diversity of stories ranging from local issues to national concerns.

A new "Monarch" feature was the point-counter point series which two journalists presented opposing viewpoints on a controversial topic.

Assistant editor Aaron Collins did much of the graphics for the paper and also drew editorial cartoons. TCOVE was the printer.

Even though the journalism staff had one less issue than last year (9), their excellent writing covered the interests of the school with competency.

Below: Chip Miller really gets down low for some great wrestling pictures. Bottom: Tom Jennings gets all wrapped up in his negatives to find the right one to print

Mike Wyatt, Staff, 'Blazes' Your ACTA Into New Decade

This year's yearbook was one in which the staff tried to "blaze" into the '80s with a great ACTA for you.

The ACTA staff, in starting a new decade, tried to use more graphic designs and color to liven up the "look" of the yearbook.

I would like to give Aaron Collins many thanks for spending many hard working hours, both in class and at home, for all his art work done in the ACTA. Aaron drew all line designs and the lettering for the cover and division pages.

I would like to thank the staff, which was a very good and experienced one. Without the experience of our staff we wouldn't have been able to put out the different things we did. The ACTA staff spent many long nights trying to meet deadlines, which they did better than any class I have been in, in my four years of journalism.

I would also like to thank all of the business establishments of Exeter, Farmersville, Visalia, and surrounding areas who sponsored our yearbook. The cost of our yearbook to the student body might have been much higher without our ads. Thanks is given to Pam Childres for doing a fine job heading up the ad sales.

I would also like to thank the photographers for putting up with the "abuse" of the ACTA staff members and doing a fine job in spite of them.

Don Kille is very deserving of thanks for answering all questions we had about new things. Mr. Kille did a fine job representing Walworth Publishing Co.

Last, but certainly not least, I would like to thank Mr. Chuck Knox who spent more hours down here working and proofreading our book than anyone else. Mr. Knox gave the OK for all the changes and also suggested many of them.

I hope all of these people, and myself, have done a good job in showing you, the student body, how we "blazed" our way into a new decade during this memorable school year.
